LBAVES TEXAS FOR ARIZONA AFTER A INTERNATIONAL WELCOME.

Mexicans Unite With United States Citimogs in a Demonstration in El Paso Long Parade in Town and an Address by the President on Our Relations to Other Nations.

BENSON, Ariz., May 6 .- President McKinley resumed his journey toward the Pacific Coast to-day, leaving El Paso at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. After his Sabbath rest he was greatly refreshed. He rose early this morning in quite as good health and spirits as when he left Washington a week ago. The route to-day was across the alkali plains of New Mexico and Arizona, with only three or four cases in the desert to relieve the tiresomeness and general discomfort of the journey. These cases after El Paso were Deming, N. M., and Bowle, Wilcox, Benson and Tucson, Ariz.

The only stop in New Mexico was at Deming, where the President was met at the station by the Governor of Arizona and several of the Territory officials and 2,000 citizens. The visit there lasted only a few minutes. The appearance of presperity among the people was striking, especially in view of the fact that the town is situated in the heart of the desert, where no green thing is seen for many miles except immediately surrounding the village. At Bowie, where the train stopped for water, there were several oow punchers in the little knot of people at the station. As the President walked out on the platform, one of them climbed upon the car from the rear, grasped Mr. McKinley's hand, and said:

"McKinley, you are all right, old boys I am glad you have come, and blow me full of holes if I don't hope you will come

Another cowpuncher who had a bowle knife and a six-shooter in his belt called

"Glad to see you. Bill, but I'll be darned you ain't got a soft snap of a job. Then he looked admiringly along the length of the Pullman train.

The people everywhere looked cheerful and thrifty. At Deming in a brief speech the President told the crowd that all they seemed to need was rain, and they all laughed. A little girl piped up from the the world, by arbitration. [Applause]. front of the crowd:

"Please, sir, we want Statehood," and

Thus far during the long continental tour it has seemed to some of those who were travelling with the President that the gladness of the people in each new town met is more pronounced than in any of the towns that have preceded it.

EL PASO, Tex., May 6.-The reception to the President in El Paso yesterday and to-day had the peculiar feature of being international in character. The cordiality of the Mexican officers did not end with their formal call on Mr. McKinley yesterday, when they presented warm greetings from President | morrow at Phoenix, Ariz, arriving there Diaz. They rode in the procession of our early in the morning. An inspection will to-morrow to decide whether to strike. The riages through the city to-day, joining heartily with the Mayor and citizens of El Paso in honoring the President of the United States.

From the time that President McKinley's special train rolled into the El Paso station yesterday morning until it left for New Mexico and Arizona this afternoon it seemed as if the honors of entertainment divided between the Americans and the Mexicans.

The carriage drive through the principal streets of the city began at 9 o'clock (local time). They have four standards of time in El Paso. At the head of the procession was the President's carriage, drawn by four coal-black Texas horses and escorted by bands and military and civic organizations that extended for nearly a mile along the line of march. There was a Mexican military band ordered here for this occasion by the Governor of Chihuahua, a Republican marching club, a company of Indians in full headdress and warpaint, also from the Mexican side of the border; a hundred or more cowpunchers from the plains on their tough little ponies, a company of the Texas National Guard and numerous other organizations.

The town turned out its entire population. The cheering was constant all along the line and the cowpunchers in the parade gave vent to their enthusiasm with tremendous veils which were echoed and re- the spirit of the protest. I have no patience echoed from the crowd on the streets, in the windows and on the tops of buildings. The carriage drive was interrupted at the principal square in the centre of the city, where a stand had been erected, and where the President addressed a cheering cosmopolitan multitude.

At 12 o'clock Mrs. McKinley and the women of the Presidential party drove become the laughing stock of the common across the Rio Grande to Juarez, Mexico, people, who, though not learned, possess where they were entertained at a typical Mexican luncheon by the women of that city, at the fine residence of Senor Ynocente Ochoa Jochoa, one of the wealthiest citizens of northern Mexico.

The Mexican visitors had seats on the platform while the President was speaking. Mr. McKinley said:

"I am glad to know that this city believes in expansion [g eat applause]; that it has been doing a great deal of it itself in the last four years [laughter and applause]; that it has more than doubled its population in the last half of the present decade, and gives promise of still great advancement and prosperity in the decade no at hand. #### THAT HARVARD M'RINEBY DEGREE. Some of the Answers That the Circular Protest of the Anti-Imperialists Is Receiving.

BOSTON, May 6 .- Despite various statements that have been made public to the effect that the discussion in regard to the degree of LL D., which to confer upon President McKinley at Harvard next June, has been settled for good and all, some, at least, do not appear to be thoroughly

In a circular sent out by Peter C. Brooks and about a dozen others appealing to Harvard men to make a protest against granting the honorary degree in question answers of various sorts have been thus far received. One is from E. B. Terhune of the class of '99, the son of William L. Terhune, the Boston publisher. He says:

"I, as a son of Harvard, would most emphatically object to any such protest as recommended. I would consider such action as proposed a degradation of the honored name of Harvard to the lowest depths of epoll-hunting, partisan politics." Another, which was received from Elmer

H. Snow, Harvard, '86, of Boston, reads: "I have received a circular, bearing the names of Peter C. Brooks and fourteen others, protesting against conferring the degree of LL D. upon President McKinley. the list I see the names of two classmates and of other gentlemen of scholarship and character. But I have no sympathy with with those impractical men, least of all if they are graduates of Harvard, who raise against the present National Administration the cry of 'Imperialism' The charge is baseless, absurd and wicked. If the authorities of Harvard University stoop so lov as to decline to follow the recommendation of Senator Hoar to confer an honorary degree on President McKinley, our alms mater will practical common sense "

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN LONDON, May 8 .- It now seems impossible to settle the scandal connected with the painting of the beautiful young American woman in the Royal Academy exhibition without a public trial in the courts. The doubt about ours being a united people, if artist, Prof. Hubert Herkomer, R. A., peryou could have travelled with me 2,800 sists in his strange refusal to substantiate miles from the Capitol at Washington to or withdraw the imputations he made the city of El Paso, that doubt would have against her character on the alleged authority of other artists for whom she had

The picture is entered on the catalogue with the title "Seeing, I Saw Not, Hearing Not, I Heard," but it is the portrait of Miss Vanderbilt Wackerman, who has been living quietly in London with her mother for eighteen months studying music and art. Her striking beauty led to her being painted by Sir Edward Poynter, President of the Royal Academy, James Sant, Ellis Roberts and half a dozen other leading artists, and she also posed for Pomeroy, the sculptor.

All these have written emphatic letters to Miss Wackerman, assuring her that Prof. Herkomer's charges are monstrously untrue. One of the artists has written a letter in which he intimates that Prof. Herkomer has recently shown signs of mental eccentricity, and it is quite true that he has been severely criticised of late regarding his action in connection with his painting of Queen Victoria's bier at Osborne

Mr. Choate, the American Ambassador, and the Rt. Rev. A. F. W. Ingram, the new Bishop of London, have actively espoused wrote a letter to Prof. Herkomer in which he said that as a man of honor the artist was bound to give the written apology The artist replied that with all due respect to his Lordship's exalted position he must decline to discuss such a matter with him. He sent a somewhat similar reply to Mr.

The mother of the young woman finally asked Prof. Herkomer to meet Mr. Choate and the Bishop of London in order to settle the matter amicably, Mr. Herkomer's reply was a note giving the address of his lawyers.

The girl and her mother steadfastly insist on a written apology. Prof. Herkomer has sone to Germany. The matter is now becoming widely known, especially in art circles, and it is unnecessary to add that Ministers is fairly satisfactory. Unfortu-Miss Wackerman is the recipient of the nately the Ministers failed to include in their warmest sympathy.

To-day he will be removed to a sanitarium, and in order to keep him give artificial means of giving sustenance to him will be resorted to. For nearly three-quarters of an hour he remained with Jones, and then hurrying across to a drug store at Mulberry and Spring streets he tele-phoned to Police Surgeon Vosburgh and Coroner's Physician Hamilton Williams to meet him as soon as possible at the House of Detention. While waiting for the doctors Mr. Garvan said:

"Jones is in a very bad state. He is so weak that he is hardly able to move him-self in his bed. I am told that he has taken no food for five days. He says he is suffer-ing from stomach trouble, but whether or not he is purposely refusing food I can-not say until the doctors see him. There is no doubt, however, that Jones is in a very despondent state and he gave me the im-pression that he does not care if he lives or dies."
It seems that Jones has been in extremely depressed spirits since his daily outings were cut off, following the somewhat sensational accounts which were published of his not accounts which were published of his hoc-turnal visits to the Tenderloin district. He has suffered from melancholia to such an extent that the officials of the House of Detention have more than once expressed their belief that the valet was becoming mentally weak. Canadian Side of the River. NIAGARA FALLS, N Y . May 6 - After years of patient waiting the Canadians are about to have their wish for the development of Niagara power on that side of the river gratifled, the Niagara Falls Power Company announcing that it will begin work under the charter of the Canadian-Niagara Power Company and develop 35,000 horse power. Much of this force will be sold to customers locally, about 10,000 horse power will be transmitted to Toronto and a large block will be held as a reserve for use in connection with the development on this side of the river The site of the development is in Victoria Park, but all of the developed energy will be used outside of the park grounds An inlet canal will be built from the head of Cear Island to the site of the power house, where a wheel pit, having a capacity of 100,000 orse power, will be built. A trail race tunnel will carry the water from the turb hes to the river below the Horse Shoe Falls. The head of water will be about the same as on this slowly finding it out, although thousands side and the details of the present Niagara development will be adhered to. The project will be financed and managed by the Niagara Falls Power Company, which controlled by New York capital The outract has been let to A C Douglas, wh unit the wheel pit on this side. Cables wi the power stations on both sides connect the power stations on both sides of the river.

By the agreement between the Commissioners of Victoria Park and the Canadian-Nlagara Power Company, the company has until July 1, 1903, to nave 10,000 developed horse power ready for use, supply and transmission and also to have water connections made for 25,000 horse power. The company has until July 1, 1904, to clean up and orniment the surfaces of the park which may be disturbed by their work. If the cleaning up and grading are not completed at the time specified then the company is to pay $10,000 dumages. Ad $500 per week during the period it remains incomplete.

The Commissioners on their part agree not to compete in the development of power, but should they grant privileges to other parties who shall fail to keep their agreement and the Commissioners be forced to take over the plant, then the agreement will not prevent them from operating such works. The power company agrees not to amalgamate with any other company herestofore or herasiter incorporated under the laws of the Demision without the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in council

STEEL TRUST'S CANADIAN RIVAL. Arrangements for Consolidating Two Companies With a Capital of $117,000,000. PHILADELPHIA, May 6 .- Officers of the Ontario Lake Superior Company and the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, the Canadian rival to the Morgan Steel Trust, issued the plan for consolidating the two companies to-night. There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the Consolidated company in New Haven, Conn., on May 16 to approve the plan. The plan proposes to increase the capital stock of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company to $117,000,000, of which $35,000,000 will be non-cumulative. per cent, preferred, and $82,000,000 common stock.

The par value of each share of the stock will be changed from $50 to $100, and the stock of the Ontario company acquired by giving $125 par value of the new consolidated preferred stock for $100 of Ontario preferred and $200 of the new common stock for $100 of the Ontario common stock.

Dividends of 25 per cent, on preferred and 10 per cent, on the common stock of the present Consolidate Company will be declared, raising the values of the present holdings by those amounts, following which the $50 shares now held will be exchanged for $100 shares to an equal amount.

Any balance is to be used to enlarge the being constructed at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, to the capacity of 2.500 tons daily.
